SEVEN WEST MEDIA

About Seven West Media

Seven West Media is one of Australia's most prominent integrated media companies, with a market-leading presence in broadcast television, digital streaming and catch-up, online, content production and publishing.

The company is home to some of Australia's most renowned media businesses, including the Seven Network which includes Seven, broadcast video on demand (BVOD) platform 7plus, 7NEWS.com.au, 7two, 7mate, 7bravo, 7flix, The West Australian, thewest.com.au, The Sunday Times, PerthNow, and regional publications including the Broome Advertiser, Bunbury Herald and the Kalgoorlie Miner.

We are #1 for premium news, sport, drama and entertainment, and deliver creative and high-quality content for audiences across Australia.

Seven West Media is one of the biggest digital publishers in Australia, with our combined digital assets – including 7NEWS.com.au, thewest.com.au and Perthnow.com.au – reaching 12.1 million people a month.

Every day, we are connecting millions of people across Australia to the moments that move the nation.

Our wide variety of content across television, newspapers and digital platforms plays a critical role in society. It inspires, informs and entertains Australia while providing trusted, impartial local and national news that is freely available and critical to the health of our democracy.

Seven West Media recognises its responsibility to all our stakeholders to deliver sustainable environmental, social and governance (ESG) outcomes. Through our partnerships with community organisations and charitable groups, and our own initiatives, we are using the power of our platforms to inspire a better us.

For more information regarding Seven West Media's financial performance, please read our 2023 Annual Report here.

ABOUT THIS REPORT

Seven West Media's Sustainability Report, first launched in 2022, provides a comprehensive overview of our sustainability activities in FY23.

We have structured our reporting around the four key pillars of our sustainability strategy:

- Representing Australia
- Providing opportunities for future generations
- Uniting people and communities
- Bringing awareness to environmental issues

We have identified these focus areas as offering the best and most meaningful positive outcomes for our people, communities and the environment.

Alongside this, we provide further detail on key areas of activity – such as our emissions reduction efforts, our key partnerships, and the important causes we support with the power of our platform by providing community service announcement (CSA) airtime.

Our sustainability strategy was developed based on an in-depth process of consultation with key internal and external stakeholders, and by assessing Seven West Media's long-term existing ESG initiatives.

As part of this process, Seven West Media adopted the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) as a framework to provide us with a clear path forward on our sustainability journey.

Seven West Media supports the SDGs, which are recognised as a key benchmark for progress on sustainability matters.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF COUNTRY

Seven West Media respectfully acknowledges the lands, waterways and sky country – the traditional homelands of our First Peoples.

From the Gadigal of Sydney, the Turrbal and Jagera of Brisbane, the Kulin nations of Melbourne, the Noongar of Perth, the Kaurna Peoples of Adelaide and everywhere in between.

We pay our heartfelt respects to the Traditional Custodians of the land throughout Australia, community Elders and the teachers who are sharing the intergenerational knowledge and education as we work side-by-side in a new era of interconnectedness.

A Letter From Our CEO

Seven West Media is proud to publish its 2023 Sustainability Report, building on the excellent foundation established by our team in 2022. This report is integral to how we approach our business and defines how we use the power of our platforms to inspire a better "us". At Seven West Media, we are committed to making an impact across Australia by doing right by our audiences, our clients, and our people.

Seven West Media's sustainability framework is built on the four pillars of Representing Australia, providing Opportunities for Future Generations, Uniting People and Communities, and Bringing Awareness to Environmental Issues.

By focusing on these areas, we believe we can have the most impact – and we have made great progress over the past 12 months. Our sustainability framework and focus on the four pillars has been warmly received by our stakeholders. We are proud of our efforts to date, but we know this is a marathon, not a sprint.

As a leading and growing Australian media company, we reach 19 million people every single month. Every day, every week and every year, we drive positive change through our community service announcement airtime that we donate to important charitable causes; through our own direct fundraising efforts and telethons; by informing millions of Australians through our current affairs and news programs, websites and newspapers; and through our own efforts to reduce our impact on the environment.

Over the past year we donated over $62 million in community service announcement airtime, totalling over 750,000 impressions across Australia. The organisations we support align with our ambitions to have an impact in our sustainability focus areas. This includes raising awareness for important environmental causes including Earth Hour, The Great Reef Census and Clean Up Australia, or providing opportunities for future generations by supporting campaigns like the Children's Cancer Institute and the Gidget Foundation. We aim to unite people and communities by supporting causes including the Biggest Morning Tea and promote our efforts in Representing Australia through supporting organisations including Be the Change and UN Women Australia. Supporting local communities is an ongoing priority for us. We bring trusted news and stories across the furthest reaches of Australia and engage communities through initiatives like the Perth 7NEWS Local Champions Awards and the Community Achievement Awards. We also look after our employees through initiatives like Mental Health Month, SWM Wellness and resilience programs across our organisation.

What we do every day becomes even more important in an era of mis and dis-information. 7NEWS, The West Australian and our other news products are trusted sources of information which help underpin our democracy and unite the people and communities in which we operate.

Seven West Media was very proud to publish our inaugural "Reflect" Reconciliation Action Plan in February 2023, an important step in strengthening our relationship with First Nations communities. As a media company, we understand the impact we have on how Australia sees itself as a nation. Representing Australia and our diversity and inclusion journey is an important pillar for our people and our audiences.

When it comes to young Australians, Seven West Media has a long and proud tradition of supporting future generations. This can be seen in our commitment to initiatives including the Channel 7 Telethon Trust. It was exciting to see our Western Australian Telethon reached new heights in 2022, with a record fundraising total of just over $71 million during its 26-hour live broadcast event – taking the total fundraising amount since its inception in 1968 to over half a billion dollars. In Victoria, our long-term partnership with the Royal Children's Hospital in Melbourne continues to thrive: this year's Good Friday Appeal raised $23 million to support the hospital in providing world-class care for the children who need it most.

We are committed to progressing our sustainability journey. Over the past 12 months we measured our emissions to gain an understanding of our emissions level and profile.

Based on our modelling, our ambition is to reduce our scope 1 and 2 greenhouse gas emissions by over 50 per cent by 2030 through a combination of grid decarbonisation, building consolidation and other reduction initiatives.

Our exciting new partnership with Planet Ark grew from our sustainability strategy and the desire to use our platform for the health of the environment. Through the partnership we are raising awareness of the importance of effective recycling and waste management. It was great to have Planet Ark co-CEO Paul Klymenko provide information on National Recycling Week and the benefits of recycling to our employees. In 2023 we will also support Planet Ark's National Tree Day initiative, Australia's largest community tree planting and nature care event.

Reflecting on these pillars and our achievements over the past year, I'm immensely proud of the progress Seven West Media has made. We look forward to building on this work and providing you with updates as we continue this journey.

Regards,

James Warburton
Chief Executive Officer and
Managing Director

Sustainability Framework

Seven West Media's critical role in Australian society is underpinned by our commitment to use the power of our platforms to inspire a better "us".

This guides our sustainability strategy and our efforts across each of the four pillars. We do this by informing and uniting Australians each and every day, through our unwavering commitment to the communities in which we operate, our support for diversity and awareness, and by operating ethically and responsibly.

Us is all of us. It includes individuals, groups, communities, businesses, organisations, the nation as a whole and our team at Seven West Media. We recognise as a media company with a reach into almost every home in Australia that we have powerful platforms that help shape who we are as Australians.

We aim to achieve a positive impact through our four sustainability pillars focused on uniting people and communities; providing opportunities for future generations; representing Australia by supporting diversity, equity and inclusion internally and externally; and by being environmentally responsible and promoting important environmental causes.

As a trusted provider of news, information and entertainment, we bring people together as we tell the nation's stories. We connect Australia with quality content, fostering a shared identity and belonging.

In short, we're bringing all of us closer to the moments that move us.

“Us” is all of us

Us as individuals
Us as teams

Us as communities
Us as a nation

Material Issues

As we continue on our sustainability journey, we recognise the importance of focusing on the key issues that matter most to the groups that drive our business: our employees; advertisers; partners; investors; audiences; and local communities.

As part of our sustainability reporting, we are committed to regularly seeking feedback from our stakeholders on issues that are most important to them.

The issues identified as most material to our business have guided the pillars of our strategy as we continue to sharpen our long-term sustainability focus. Social issues continue to be of utmost importance to our stakeholders, as well as using our platform to support progress in key areas, like raising awareness of environmental issues.

Our most material sustainability issues span across social, environmental and governance factors.

SOCIAL

Stakeholders have high expectations of Seven West Media in our sustainability journey, particularly in relation to people and communities. Community engagement, the importance of diversity, equity and inclusion within our business, and content representation are key priorities for our stakeholders.

ENVIRONMENTAL

While social issues are of the highest priority, stakeholders also highlight two critical environmental aspects where we can make an impact – in reducing our energy use and greenhouse gas emissions, and in how we leverage our platform to drive environmental progress.

GOVERNANCE

The governance of our content, and data security and privacy are essential aspects of our responsibility as a leading media organisation. Responsible broadcasting, characterised by accurate and independent content and responsible advertising, is also crucial.

UNITED NATIONS' SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

The United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), endorsed by the United Nations in 2015, provide a clear path for achieving sustainable development globally.

Seven West Media supports these goals wholeheartedly, and we continue to reflect their importance in how we progress towards our sustainability targets and performance.

Our support is focused on the following priority goals:

Goal 3.

Ensure healthy lives and promote well-being for all at all ages

Goal 5.

Achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls

Goal 10.

Reduce inequality within and among countries

Goal 12.

Ensure sustainable consumption and production patterns

Goal 16.

Promote peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, provide access to justice for all and build effective, accountable, and inclusive institutions at all levels

Community Service Announcements

Seven West Media is committed to using the power of our platforms to inspire a better us. One of the highest impact ways to achieve our sustainability purpose is through the ongoing support we provide to charitable causes and other organisations across Australia via Community Service Announcement (CSA) airtime.

Our platforms reach 19 million people every month, and through this reach we can assist charitable organisations, raise important funds, draw attention to important issues, and promote vital community initiatives.

Seven West Media donates tens of millions of dollars of airtime to CSAs annually for charities and community groups through the Seven Network. We also provide advertising and other support through The West Australian and our other publications.

In the last financial year, we provided CSA support with a value of more than $62 million to more than 140 organisations across the nation.

Our CSA support during FY23 spanned a wide range of important issues – helping charitable causes and other organisations to raise funds, promoting the availability of important services and providing education on important environmental and social issues.

These campaigns included:

LIFE BE IN IT

Life Be In It is one of Australia's most well-known health campaigns which encourages us to get out and get active for a healthier, happier life. Issues with obesity and the need for more exercise among Australians have never occupied more of the news than they have recently – whether the issue being discussed is heart health, diabetes, cardiovascular disease or mental health, the most common advice is to get out and walk more! Created in the 1970s, many Australians remember the original public health campaign fondly, and now it's back after COVID lockdowns to help remind us to get up, get out and get active!

R U OK?

R U OK? is a national charity inspiring and empowering everyone to meaningfully connect and lend support to the people in their world who may be struggling with life. R U OK? Day is their national day of action in September each year.

In 2022, the top conversation barrier for Australians to ask their loved ones R U OK? was that they thought it was a conversation for an expert. R U OK? set out to remind all Australians that they have what it takes to ask the question and have the conversation, with their R U OK? Day campaign: "Ask R U OK? No qualifications needed." Seven West Media provided CSA airtime to R U OK? as part of this important campaign.

Following R U OK? Day, a nationally representative survey (Kantar, October 2022) found that 92 per cent of respondents agreed that they feel more confident they have the knowledge and skills to know when and how to ask, 'are you OK?' and how to keep the conversation going when someone says they're not OK.

BACKPACK BED FOR HOMELESS

Backpack Bed for Homeless is a national charity that saves lives by providing Backpack Beds and Fire Retardant Sleeping Bags to homeless people without shelter. Over 120,000 Aussies will be homeless today and over 45,800 people will sleep on our streets without shelter this year. The Backpack Bed looks like a backpack and rolls out to a waterproof and fire retardant bed with a mattress – improving dignity, self-esteem, health, sleep, comfort and safety for people on the street. It is fire retardant and meets 47 standards for quality and safety.

Backpack Beds are 100% funded by public donations. To drive public awareness and support their fundraising, marketing and production companies in Melbourne helped Backpack Bed for Homeless to produce a television spot, which was then aired by Seven West Media to generate more support for this vital community-funded cause.

BREAST CANCER TRIALS 2023

AUSTRALIAN WOMEN'S HEALTH DIARY

For 25 years, Breast Cancer Trials has produced the Australian Women's Health Diary, a fundraising initiative to raise funds for clinical trials research for the treatment, prevention and cure of breast cancer. This research is critical to ensure every person gets the personalised treatment they need to cure them of their breast cancer, forever.

This year Seven West Media ran a campaign calling on viewers to purchase the Australian Women's Health Diary, which was available at newsagents and participating Post Offices and Woolworths stores. The 2023 edition raised almost $900,000 to support breast cancer research.

Reconciliation Action Plan

In 2023, Seven West Media published its inaugural 'Reflect' Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP).

Endorsed by Reconciliation Australia, Seven West Media's first Reflect RAP has been developed to strengthen Seven West Media's relationship with First Nations communities, embed reconciliation throughout the business and provide Seven West Media with meaningful accountability. It sets out a long-term framework that will contribute positively to the pursuit of reconciliation, as well as empower and educate those within Seven West Media about issues that continue to face First Nations Peoples.

As one of Australia's most prominent media companies and home to Australia's most-watched television network, Seven West Media plays a vital role in entertaining and informing millions of Australians with diverse content, providing us with numerous and unique opportunities to contribute to reconciliation between First Nations Peoples and non-Indigenous Australians.

In our journey towards reconciliation, we will increase our Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander procurement, create Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employment strategies, develop internal policies that enable our people to volunteer time to participate in First Nations Peoples' charities and community work, and provide tools, resources and activities to help our people better understand, celebrate and empower First Nations Peoples.

Seven West Media is committed to increasing employment opportunities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples in our company. While the current number of First Nations Peoples employed at Seven West Media is unknown, we will undertake measures to better capture this information in the future.

As part of this RAP, Seven West Media has established its first Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander external advisory board to provide guidance, support, cultural knowledge and advice throughout our reconciliation journey.

Additionally, as part of our efforts to mark National Reconciliation Week in 2023, The West Australian published its second and now annual dual Noongar-English front cover of Marawar Boodjara (The West Australian). This edition was also co-edited by Indigenous leaders Colleen Hayward and Clinton Wolf.

Alongside this, Seven West Media held an internal staff event during National Reconciliation Week focusing on cultural awareness, unconscious bias and Acknowledgement of Country.

Reconciliation Action Plan

The artwork which appears on the front of the inaugural RAP, and now hangs proudly at the Seven West Media office in Sydney, is titled “Niina Marni” and was inspired by Seven West Media’s connection to the communities we operate in – from the small regional towns in heartland Australia to the largest metropolitan cities.

The illustration by Brian James Devonshire depicts the different Australian states by their floral emblems, which themselves represent the beauty and diversity of all our native flowers and their value to sustaining Australia’s unique ecosystems.

The artwork portrays the violet-blue Royal Bluebell wildflower alongside the iconic waratah flower, the common heath flower, Sturt’s desert pea flower, Sturt’s desert rose, the Tasmanian blue gum and the red and green kangaroo paw. At the centre of the artwork, connecting the lands is the Rainbow Serpent, which in Aboriginal society represents one of the great and powerful forces of nature and spirit.

Describing the artwork, Brian said: “The Rainbow Serpent of life meanders through the regional communities of the states and territories of our Australia. The artwork is also inspired by Seven West Media’s inclusiveness of LGBTQIA+ across the organisation, so I took the opportunity to incorporate non-traditional shades in the piece and use more contemporary colours.

Case Study: Planet Ark

PLANET ARK AND NATIONAL RECYCLING WEEK

The heart of our sustainability efforts is to use the power of our platform to inspire a better us and this was brought to life in our new and exciting partnership with environmental leaders Planet Ark. Utilising the reach of our platforms to raise awareness for environmental issues across Australia is a priority for us at Seven West Media. In 2022, we sought out an organisation making a meaningful difference in this space in order to elevate their message: this process led to our media partnership with Planet Ark.

Planet Ark is a leading behaviour change organisation focused on helping people, business and government reduce their impact on the environment. In November 2022, we were proud to serve as Planet Ark's official media partner for National Recycling Week, which focuses on actionable changes Australians can make in their own lives to improve outcomes for the planet.

The focus for National Recycling Week in 2022 was exploring the idea that 'Waste isn't Waste until it's Wasted' and encouraging Australians to get involved by performing at least one recycling activity that they might not have previously to show how simple measures can improve one's environmental impact.

We were hugely proud of the impact we were able to have by elevating this important national campaign – the media reach of the campaign improved by 58 per cent, with social reach improving by 20 per cent.

United by shared values around supporting environmental initiatives (on both sides of the screen), our partnership allowed us to amplify Planet Ark's vital campaigns, and we look forward to making National Recycling Week even bigger and better in 2023.

HELPING TO HAVE GREATER IMPACT:

National Recycling Week 2022 included:

- 325,074 students involved at schools across the country
- 3.7 million people reached on social media
- 2 weeks of national television coverage
- 162 registered events
- 19,281 people involved through their workplaces – and counting!

Bringing awareness to important environmental initiatives:

- Priority Placement of the Community Service Announcement through the campaign
- Network ID promoting recycling tips
- WAN produced five features focusing on sustainability which were included in The West Australian – on National Water Week, National Recycling Week, Renewable WA, Sustainability WA and World Environment Day
- Infomercial support in The Morning Show

Real results delivered:

- 14 percentage point increase in national awareness of the initiative⁽¹⁾
- Strong awareness increases in all demos from under 24s to 65 and older⁽²⁾
All states experienced strong uplifts, strongest in WA with +17 percentage point⁽³⁾

- Seven viewers of the NRW TV campaign activity were more likely to act than the rest of Australia.⁽⁴⁾
- +15 points To practice recycling correctly
- +15 points Feeling inspired to reduce waste
- +17 points Wanting to participate in NRW
- +14 points To find out more about NRW

Representing Australia

At Seven West Media, our team's diverse backgrounds and experiences foster a belief in the power of an inclusive and equitable workplace. This combination leads to improved outcomes for both our stakeholders and our business.

INTERNAL DIVERSITY AND RECONCILIATION SUPPORT

As an organisation that aims to speak to all Australians, diversity and inclusion is at the heart of Seven West Media.

Reconciliation is an essential aspect of how we better ensure we are representing Australia. In 2023, we published our inaugural 'Reflect' Reconciliation Action Plan. Endorsed by Reconciliation Australia, Seven West Media's first Reflect RAP has been developed to strengthen Seven West Media's relationship with First Nations communities, embed reconciliation throughout the business and provide Seven West Media with meaningful accountability. It sets out a long-term framework that will contribute positively to the pursuit of reconciliation, as well as empower and educate those within Seven West Media about issues that continue to face First Nations Peoples.

As part of this effort, Seven West Media partners with the National Indigenous Times (NIT), a 100% Indigenous-owned news media organisation for Indigenous affairs, to better raise awareness for the issues that affect Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples. Millions of Australians read their monthly publication across the country. The West Australian provides pro-bono production services to NIT, including the use of facilities as well as layout, design and printing services.

On gender equality, Seven West Media is proud to have been named an Employer of Choice for Gender Equality by the Workplace Gender Equality Agency for 2022-2024.

At Seven West Media 47 per cent of management roles are held by women. We are excited to announce we have reached our gender diversity targets, and Seven West Media is now in the process of gathering broader data with a view to setting ourselves additional Diversity, Equity and Inclusion targets.

The company celebrated International Women's Day in 2023 as an official media partner of UN Women, our third year of this important partnership, hosting five key UN Women events for internal staff across our locations in Australia.

Seven West Media also celebrated LGBTQIA+ Pride, continuing our support for diversity in both our workplace and the wider community. Channel 7 and PerthNow returned as official media partners of the 2022 Pride Parade and Festival, and held Pride celebrations across our locations.

Pride month celebrations at Seven West Media

We continue to run internal training programs focused on important issues related to diversity, equity and inclusion. In FY23, Seven West Media conducted compulsory modules on cultural awareness, diversity and inclusion, and workplace discrimination and harassment – including a module on Respect@Work.

We also reflect these values in our policies. We have reviewed and updated our recruitment policy to address flexible working options, to make hiring panels more diverse to support inclusive recruitment processes, and to focus on First Nations Peoples in line with our RAP. We are also now using a 'job decoder' tool to avoid gendered coding of job listings.

Representing Australia

PARTNERING WITH INDUSTRY TO DRIVE CHANGE

Seven West Media's membership to meaningful organisations is another important element of representing Australia, and we are proud to be part of the Screen Diversity Inclusion Network (SDIN), the UN Unstereotype Alliance and Media Diversity Australia.

As part of the SDIN, Seven West Media is participating in the 'The Everyone Project' to benchmark and track the diversity of the Australian screen industry. In October 2022 SDIN released the inaugural 'The Everyone Project' survey, which measures diversity on and off screen in Australia's TV and film industry. This report covers data from a number of Seven West Media's productions, including through our production partners and our own productions.

We are also excited to have joined the Diversity Council Australia in 2023, an independent not-for-profit peak body leading diversity and inclusion in the workplace.

REPRESENTING DIVERSITY ON-SCREEN

Seven West Media reflects Australia's diversity through our news, entertainment and sport content, supporting how Australians perceive themselves and their country.

Our content is constantly evolving to be more diverse and inclusive, aligning with our Australian audiences from all backgrounds.

Producing quality Australian content is critical and has far-reaching impacts beyond the number of people who watch and engage with it each day. Seven West Media is proud to have more than 70 per cent Australian content on our primary channels.

Quality Australian content enriches the social fabric of Australia. It informs voters. It holds the powerful to account. It tells stories. It provides employment. It promotes Australian tourism. It promotes important environmental and social causes. It unites Australian communities.

In our role as the nation's leading broadcaster, Seven West Media is committed to helping guide positive social change by representing Australia's diversity on-screen. Some examples of how we are reflecting our diverse nation on screen include:

2023 Australian Idol winner Royston Sagigi-Baira

Australian Idol, one of Australia's best-loved singing competitions returned to our screens in 2023 and it continues to represent a diverse cross-section of Australian society. The 2023 Australian Idol winner Royston Sagigi-Baira, a 24-year-old queer Thanakwith and Wagadagam man, has spoken about the importance of representation and said he hadn't really seen someone who looked or lived like him on television before¹.

- Sydney Weekender, Seven West Media's Sydney and NSW-focused travel show, includes the Acknowledgment of Country and First Nations names for places visited in every episode, as well as featuring a special NAIDOC episode ahead of NAIDOC week. One of our presenters, Luke Carrol, is a proud First Nations man from the Wiradjuri nation.
- Seven West Media is proud to be the broadcast partner for the AFL and AFLW, and our long-term partnership with the AFL includes important events such as the AFL Indigenous Round, the AFL ANZAC Round and the AFL Sir Doug Nicholls Round.
- Seven Network was also proud to be the official Australian media partner for the XXII Commonwealth Games in Birmingham, the most inclusive and diverse event in world sport. This Commonwealth Games had a fully-integrated competition schedule; and the Games saw more women competing for medals than men.

Future Generations

Seven West Media is committed to improving opportunities for future generations, particularly in health and social outcomes. We allocate substantial resources to projects across Australia, focusing on children's health, medical research, and career and mentoring opportunities. Our aim is to create a better future for younger Australians, making a meaningful impact on their wellbeing.

CHILDREN'S HEALTH AND MEDICAL RESEARCH

Seven West Media, in partnership with the Channel 7 Telethon Trust, runs the annual Western Australian Telethon. In 2022, the Telethon raised an incredible $71,356,721 during its 26-hour live broadcast event – taking the total fundraising amount since its inception in 1968 to over half a billion dollars!

Funds raised for the Channel 7 Telethon Trust have supported medical research into children's diseases, and provided equipment, critical services and life-changing opportunities for sick, disadvantaged and vulnerable children. The Telethon 'Leeuwin Lunch' in May 2023 raised a further $5 million.

In Victoria we support the Good Friday Appeal, a long-term partnership with the Royal Children's Hospital in Melbourne and The Herald Sun. The 2023 annual Good Friday Appeal helped raise a record-breaking $23,061,320 for The Royal Children's Hospital.

These funds will support it in continuing to provide world-class care to children and pursuing ground-breaking research as one of the world's leading children's hospitals.

In South Australia, the Channel 7 Children's Research Foundation (CRF) awards annual grants of around $1.5 million to organisations carrying out children's medical research.

The Channel 7 CRF, an independent not-for-profit organisation dedicated to enriching the lives of children, was established in 1976 with proceeds from Christmas Telethon Appeals.

Throughout the Foundation's 46 years, organisations including Flinders University, SA Pathology, University of South Australia, The University of Adelaide, SAHMRI, The Queen Elizabeth Hospital, Novita, and the Women's and Children's Health Network have accessed over $45 million (in today's dollars) of CRF funding for more than 1,000 children's research projects.

Seven West Media also supports Sydney's Annual Sick Kids Appeal, using our platform to help in raising vital funds for Sydney's network of world-leading Children's hospitals and services, so sick kids across the state receive the best possible care, when and where they need it.

In 2022 we also continued to support Ronald McDonald House Charities through their biggest fundraiser – McHappy Day. This annual event is staged to help to raise much-needed funds for the families of sick children – many of whom live a distance from their nearest hospital. Seven West Media supported McHappy Day, providing Community Service Announcement airtime to promote this important cause. Our team also volunteered at stores across Queensland on the day.

MENTORING AND SUPPORTING FUTURE CAREERS

Seven West Media also runs mentoring and scholarship programs to support careers in the media industry.

This year, Seven West Media was thrilled to announce Nuwan Ranasinghe as the second recipient of the David Leckie Seven Scholarship Program, following the success of inaugural recipient, Madeline McKeown, who has secured a full-time producer position at Weekend Sunrise. Established in 2021, the annual program honours the legacy of the late David Leckie, former Seven West Media Chief Executive Officer, by offering a 12-month scholarship role at Seven West Media for a graduate with a passion for sales, programming or news. It was set up in partnership with Skye Leckie and David and Skye's sons, Harry and Ben.

Future Generations

In 2022, Seven West Media also launched a new Broadcast Technician and Operations Trainee program to recruit and train new and diverse talent in the broadcast operations team by providing six successful candidates with two-year paid contracts that combine TAFE study with mentoring and hands-on training. The program will provide the next generation of highly-skilled technicians and operators with the opportunity for real experience in a world-class environment.

As part of our long commitment to providing opportunities for future generations and creating clear pathways for young Australians, the Seven Network has a partnership with The Careers Department, a leading Australian educational tech company, to provide career education resources and help prepare students for roles in growth industries.

The partnership saw Seven West Media support The Careers Department's 2022/2023 National Schools' Tour and face-to-face workshops in over 100 metropolitan, regional and remote schools, as well as virtual work experience competition.

7NEWS and Sunrise reporters, including Sam Mac, have also created bespoke video content that will give students a behind-the-scenes look at life working in the television industry, and examples of pathways to these roles.

Case Study: Telethons

THE CHANNEL 7 TELETHON AND GOOD FRIDAY APPEAL

The Channel 7 Telethon in Western Australia and the Good Friday Appeal in Victoria are two of Seven West Media's most successful fundraising initiatives, attracting vital support for future generations of Australians.

TELETHON – WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Seven West Media, in collaboration with the Channel 7 Telethon Trust, actively contributes to the success of Telethon in Western Australia. In 2022, Telethon achieved a remarkable $71,356,721. This achievement was celebrated during a 26-hour live broadcast event, further solidifying Telethon's legacy as a philanthropic powerhouse since its inception in 1968, with a cumulative fundraising total exceeding half a billion dollars!

Funds raised for the Channel 7 Telethon Trust have supported medical research into children's diseases, and provided equipment, critical services and life-changing opportunities for sick, disadvantaged and vulnerable children. The Telethon 'Leeuwin Lunch' in May 2023 raised a further $5 million.

OUR IMPACT

In 2022, Telethon-funded grants directly impacted:

112,158 children

94,416 parents

1,178 schools

68,499 families

Source: Grant reporting received from Telethon beneficiaries between 01/12/2022 – 28/02/2023

This year, we also celebrated some incredible milestones with our Telethon beneficiaries, including 10 years supporting Constable Care, 20 years supporting Camp Quality and Therapy Focus, and 40 years with Telethon Speech & Hearing.

This event is made possible by the immense efforts of our volunteers, consisting of both our staff and other helpers from the community. In 2022, we were supported by more than 1,300 volunteers!

GOOD FRIDAY APPEAL – VICTORIA

In Victoria, we support the Good Friday Appeal, a decades-long partnership with the Royal Children's Hospital in Melbourne and the Herald Sun.

The Royal Children's Hospital delivers world class care to thousands of patients and their families every year. The vital funds raised from the Good Friday Appeal support people most in need, including through ground-breaking research that aims to provide a better future for kids in Australia and around the world.

In 2023, the Good Friday Appeal helped raise a record-breaking $23,061,320 for The Royal Children's Hospital, and Seven West Media looks forward to continuing this exceptional partnership in the years ahead.

Uniting People and Communities

As members of the communities where we operate, we play a vital role in fostering unity and shared understanding. We are proud to be a part of the fabric that brings our communities together and cultivates the spirit of Australia.

SUPPORTING LOCAL COMMUNITY GROUPS

We are locals in the communities in which we operate, and we are committed to supporting these communities and giving back.

This includes initiatives to engage communities, such as Perth Local Champions award. 7NEWS, together with RAC Insurance, call on the community to tell us about the volunteers, the carers and the selfless unsung heroes that quietly dedicate their time to helping the lives of others so we can give them the recognition they deserve. Over 10 weeks, 7NEWS then tells the stories of Local Champions who were nominated by fellow community members. More than 2,000 volunteers were nominated for awards this year – more than three times as were nominated in previous years. A total of $15,500 in prize money is awarded across eight categories, with a major prize of $5,000 to the overall winner.

The 7NEWS commitment to telling stories that connect with community is at the heart of the partnership with Awards Australia, which runs both the Young Achiever and Community Achievement Awards nationally. As the naming rights partner of both awards, the aim is to encourage, acknowledge and reward the valuable contributions individuals, communities and businesses are making throughout metropolitan and regional communities.

The partnership allows our 7NEWS presenters time within the community, presenting and officiating awards ceremonies, and offers staff the opportunity to be part of expert judging panels and awards events. By telling the stories of our inspiring Australians, the awards showcase and celebrate the courage and endeavour of everyday people, to make a difference and a contribution.

Seven West Media is also using the power of our platforms to support community initiatives helping those impacted by natural disasters. In 2022, Seven Network's Farmer Wants A Wife partnered with Drought Angels, a Queensland-based rural support charity, to help provide financial assistance and relief to primary producers across Australia impacted by drought and natural disasters. Drought Angels was featured prominently in an episode of the show centred around Farmer Paige, a first-generation sheep and cattle farmer from New South Wales, taking part in a community fundraising event for Drought Angels. As part of Farmer Wants A Wife's commitment to Australian farmers and communities, Seven West Media also delivered additional support to Drought Angels through the creation of a free television commercial that ran on Channel 7 and 7plus.

THE BIG FREEZE

The annual Big Freeze event raises funds for Fight Motor Neurone Disease through the Big Freeze – including via the walk, the celebrity slide and the sale of its iconic blue beanies. FightMND is driving real change, and has been able to invest over $69.3M over the past nine years in research that is beginning to show real promise.

The Big Freeze 9 in 2023 raised a total of $2.3 million on the day, surpassing the goal of $2 million. Seven West Media is proud to be a long-term supporter for this important cause as a media partner, hosting a live broadcast of the event across our platforms.

Uniting People and Communities

SUPPORTING VULNERABLE MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNITY

Seven West Media is also committed to helping those most vulnerable in our community, and we are proud to be the media partner for White Ribbon Day 2023. White Ribbon Day, also known as the International Day for the Eradication of Violence against Women (held on 25 November), is an annual day to raise awareness of family violence.

Seven West Media was also a sponsor for the annual dinner for the Women's Resilience Centre, which works to bridge the gap in services between short-term crisis care and longer-term recovery for women who have experienced or witnessed domestic abuse and trauma. Seven West Media also volunteered for and participated in the Walk for the Women's and Girls' Emergency Centre to raise funds to support women and families in crisis.

Internally, Seven West Media provides support and paid leave for any employees experiencing domestic or family violence issues, and has improved the benefits available to employees dealing with domestic or family violence issues by upgrading our employee assistance program to a provider that offers additional services.

MENTAL HEALTH AND COMMUNITY WELFARE

Internally, we have programs in place for mental health, risk management, and wellness initiatives. Our comprehensive framework includes training, events, and initiatives to support mental health, such as SWM Wellness, RU OK Day?, Mental Health Month, and campaigns on gender-based violence and financial stress.

Resilience programs are delivered across the organisation, particularly for news and broadcast teams. For our team, we also have a 'Wellness Wednesdays' program in which there is a wellness topic or activity each week; and we have launched a partnership with the Calm smartphone application to provide our employees with mental health, mindfulness and sleep support.

IN THE COMMUNITY

We are proud to support Australia's artistic and cultural institutions – Seven West Media is a strategic partner to the National Gallery of Australia and provides support to Art Exhibitions Australia and Perth Fringe as a media partner.

Seven West Media is also bringing us all closer to local community sports from across the nation, with West Australian Newspaper's launch of community sports platform Streamer.

Streamer aims to be a 'home of community sport', not just a streaming website, but where grass roots sporting clubs and players can get the exposure and funding they need to be successful, sustainable and to have an impact in their community. Streamer brings awareness to these sporting clubs and facilitates public and corporate donations to support local community sports.

Seven West Media is also proud to sponsor local sports in the communities in which we operate, such as the local AFL in Albury.

We are proud of our work bringing cheer to Australians during the holiday season. Seven West Media's Channel 7 Perth has owned and managed the much-loved Perth Christmas Pageant for more than 50 years, and we are the official broadcast partner of the Woolworths Carols in the Domain. We also broadcast local holiday events, such as the City of Gold Coast's Mayor's Christmas Carols and the Mildura Carols by Candlelight.

Uniting People and Communities

PROVIDING TRUSTED NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR COMMUNITIES

Seven West Media, through 7NEWS, Sunrise, and The West Australian, delivers the latest trusted news and information to metropolitan and regional communities. We keep them informed about national, state, territory and local happenings, contributing to a well-functioning democracy. We are continuing to invest in providing high quality news with our new state of the art facility at Media City in Sydney.

We provide news across the nation, with 55 news bulletins across 20 regional markets, creating almost 24 hours of news material every weekday.

DUBBO CHANNEL 7 NEWS

Hamish Southwell and Russell 'Rusty' Kinsey are the reporter and camera operator team for Dubbo news Channel 7 – bringing the stories of Dubbo and the surrounding regions to the rest of Australia and beyond!

Local reporter Hamish says for the team, it's about flying the flag in communities large and small. "Getting out to the smaller communities that don't always get a say is so important. We're like a community noticeboard – the central service where people get their information from. In these tight-knit communities, the smaller issues can mean so much more."

Rusty, behind the camera, has been a staple of Dubbo news for over 40 years, and says it all comes down to fostering trust. "People are our business. We never want to be just a camera in anyone's face – it's about connecting as people, to tell the stories that need to be told."

Sometimes, a story connects with the local community to help them come together for a great cause – like improvements to the local school bus service for a mum raising four kids in difficult circumstances further out of town.

Other times, it's a story that travels a long way – like breaking stories about opal mining developments in Lightning Ridge that are followed closely by people and businesses across Europe.

"With Seven West Media as the only full-time TV network out in this part of the country, and with so many stories to be told, we're so grateful to be able to tell them. Some of the stories we've covered, you could write several books on!"

For Hamish and Rusty, uniting people and communities is at the core of what they do, and the Channel 7 Dubbo news team is proud to use their platform to inspire a better "us."

Bringing Awareness to Environmental Issues

At Seven West Media, we recognise the power of our platforms to raise environmental awareness and shed light on crucial environmental issues. We consider it our responsibility to collaborate with organisations that prioritise sustainability and conservation. Seven West Media is also committed to reducing the environmental impact of our business activities on the communities and the environment in which we operate.

RAISING AWARENESS

As Australia's most watched network, we recognise that one of the most effective ways for us to drive positive environmental outcomes is to use the power of our platforms.

One of our key sustainability partners is Planet Ark, a leading environmental behaviour change organisation focused on making a difference here in Australia. We were proud to serve as Planet Ark's official media partner for its National Recycling Week program in 2022, and we are continuing our work alongside this important organisation in 2023.

Planet Ark's work focuses on making positive environmental actions accessible to all. National Recycling Week, one of the organisation's flagship national campaigns, aims to build trust in recycling practices and promote good recycling habits among Australians.

United by shared values around supporting environmental initiatives (on both sides of the screen), our partnership allowed us to amplify Planet Ark's important work with the National Recycling Week campaign.

REDUCING OUR IMPACT

Over the past 12 months we measured our emissions to gain an understanding of our emissions level and profile. We now have a comprehensive view of our scope 1 and 2 emissions.

Our scope 1 emissions are largely comprised of diesel and petrol for transport including for our news teams, as well as natural gas and refrigerant.

Our scope 2 emissions, which make up 92% of our emissions, are from electricity consumption.

We were pleased to find that since 2016 we have reduced our scope 1 and 2 emissions by almost 27 per cent.¹ Our FY22 emissions footprint falls under the NGER reporting threshold.

Having established the FY22 baseline for our scope 1 and 2 emissions, we engaged climate risk and energy transition consultants Energetics to evaluate and quantify our future reduction plans.

Based on their calculations and modelling our ambition is to reduce our scope 1 and 2 greenhouse gas emissions by over 50 per cent by FY2030 through a combination of grid decarbonisation, building consolidation and other reduction initiatives including the introduction of LED lighting.

Figure 2

Bringing Awareness to Environmental Issues

Additionally, we are actively committed to minimising the environmental impact of our business operations on both communities and the natural surroundings where we operate. This includes:

IMPROVING THE SUSTAINABILITY OF OUR PRINTING

Printed editions of our newspaper are important for accessibility to news in many of the communities in which we operate, particularly those in regional or remote areas.

We are mindful of the impact that newspaper production has on our environment and aim to reduce the impact of the physical copies of our newspapers. West Australian Newspapers undertakes the following sustainability initiatives:

- The paper used to print The West Australian, The Sunday Times, regional and community titles is sourced from a mix of recycled consumer product and certified plantation forests. West Australian Newspapers also ensures all paper used is sustainably sourced and not from illegally logged timber.
- The West Australian and The Sunday Times printed waste measure has been further reduced from 4.9 per cent to 4.3 per cent.
- Waste ink produced in Perth is collected and reprocessed and plant wastewater is processed and used for reticulation on site.

ENERGY EFFICIENCIES MEASURES

Electricity is the overwhelming majority of Seven West Media's energy use and emissions, including across our offices and in our production studios. The consolidation of our Sydney studio to Media City in Eveleigh and plans for relocations to higher rated energy efficient buildings will cumulatively save over 10,000 tCO₂e from SWM's emissions portfolio from FY22 to FY30*.

Reducing the energy consumption of our lighting is also an important step in reducing our overall footprint. LEDs have lower power consumption, and also have dimming and sensor capabilities which enable further reductions in energy use (this dimmer and sensor system can reduce emissions from a light system by up to 80 per cent). To date in Western Australia we have replaced more than a third of our fluorescent light fittings with LEDs. Our recent relocation of 7NEWS and Sunrise in Sydney saw their new studio fitted with LED lighting therefore reducing our use of both incandescent and fluorescent globes in lighting sets.

IMPROVING PROCESSES FOR WASTE MANAGEMENT

In an effort to raise awareness of the Planet Ark partnership and promote better recycling practices, we held a Sustainability SWM school hosted by Larry Emdur where we had Planet Ark's co-CEO Paul Klymenko talk about recycling. Following this our CEO and MD James Warburton joined Paul and Dr Trent Dickeson our Director of Operations and Clare Gill our Chief Regulatory and Sustainability Officer, for some recycling Trivia to engage the organisation in this important partnership and environment practice.

Additionally, as part of our continued journey for improvement on waste management, we continue a national roll out of centralised, colour coded bins, allowing staff to sort their own waste and removing the need for plastic-lined bins at every workstation.

* Energetics analysis 2023 - The MWh/annum of electricity is assumed constant over time, until inclusion of building consolidation and square meterage data provided by SWM for projected FY22-30 analysis

Sustainability Governance

At Seven West Media, we uphold robust corporate governance, prioritising ethics and responsibility. Our Board oversees our corporate policies, accessible on our company's website.

Our Board has ultimate oversight of Seven West Media's sustainability strategy and efforts, which are reported to the CEO and the Board from our Chief Sustainability Officer and a cross-functional internal ESG committee that meets monthly and manages the implementation of this sustainability strategy.

Our core values – Be Brave, Better Together, and Make it Happen – guide and shape this strategy. This strategy is also guided by our materiality assessment, which identified the key ESG issues impacting our customers, communities, viewers, employees and other stakeholders. Seven West Media is committed to refreshing this assessment regularly.

Sustainability is deeply embedded in our business – we work every day to represent Australia, unite people and communities, create opportunities for future generations, and drive environmental awareness.

Our Board continues to recognise the management of financial and non-financial risk as an integral pillar to Seven West Media's operations. We constantly review established policies and procedures to oversee and manage material business risks, including cyber security, customer and staff privacy and compliance.

Outlined on the right is our approach to key sustainability governance areas highlighted as material by our stakeholders.

DATA PRIVACY

We integrate sound governing principles into all corporate processes, particularly when handling personal information and collected data. We deploy secure and encrypted cloud based technologies for housing and movement of identifiable and de-identified datasets.

We have a senior Privacy Officer and a comprehensive Privacy Policy that ensures our organisation is compliant with the Australian Privacy Principles. Our aim is to handle personal information responsibly, transparently and not hold data without value exchange for our customers.

As part of this commitment to protecting data privacy, we have shared our views with the Federal Government as part of the consultation on the new Privacy Act, including the technical function of SaaS based Data Clean Room solutions to ensure this meets the unique data protection needs of our audiences.

CYBER SECURITY

We continue to evolve our Cyber security program in alignment with the current threat landscape. We recently implemented enhanced password security checking and changed our multifactor authentication to require verification code checking.

We have also invested in an AI based email filtering technology, which has resulted in a significant reduction of phishing email.

We are currently uplifting our security incident and event monitoring system which gives us more visibility and insight into our Cloud security posture.

Awareness training remains key to maintaining security vigilance, we continuously test phish proneness and deliver video based training modules.

Our program has strong support from the Executive Committee and we report to the Board on a bi-monthly basis.

RESPONSIBLE ADVERTISING

We recognise advertising's impact on the community and adhere to policies to ensure compliance with industry best practice and legal requirements.

Our scheduling teams ensure a balanced approach between advertising and audience-loved content, adhering to time limits in the Commercial Television Industry Code of Practice.

We provide comprehensive training to ensure suitable advertising for young audiences, aired at appropriate times.

All advertisements comply with the Australian Association of National Advertisers (AANA)'s Code of Ethics, Food and Beverages Advertising Code and Children's Advertising Code, as well as the ABAC Responsible Alcohol Marketing Code.

We recognise advertising's impact on vulnerable community members and through our partnership with the Unstereotype Alliance we work to eliminate harmful biases by aligning our marketing activities with their policies and objectives.

Sustainability Governance

EDITORIAL AND CONTENT GUIDELINES

Australia's free-to-air broadcasters are regulated under the Commercial Television Code of Practice. The Code is a result of extensive consultation with advisory bodies, community interest groups, and the general public. It aims to balance the widely varied and often conflicting interests of these groups in the regulation of free-to-air broadcasting. Our commercial television programs comply with licence conditions, Australian Communications and Media Authority standards, and industry codes of practice.

Seven West Media has proudly partnered with Free TV in the development and rolling out of an interactive online Code of Practice training module. This training was rolled out to all Seven West Media's news, sales, commercial inventory, and classification teams in early May 2023. This module has formed an essential component of ensuring Seven West Media's news, sales, commercial inventory, and classification teams are equipped to maintain our corporate culture of compliance and the highest standards of commercial television broadcasting throughout our organisation.

West Australian Newspapers follows an editorial policy and a code of conduct, assessed by the Independent Media Council in the case of complaints.

CODE OF CONDUCT AND COMPANY POLICIES

The Board has adopted a Code of Conduct for directors, guiding their ethical conduct, conflict of interest disclosure, and management.

Employees also follow a Code of Conduct, setting ethical principles for business conduct with customers, employees, and stakeholders.

Material breaches are reported to the Board. We have implemented additional policies and procedures to maintain integrity, including Continuous Disclosure, Share Trading, Procurement, Diversity Equity and Inclusion, Whistleblower, Fraud, Anti-Bribery and Corruption, and Modern Slavery policies.

EMPLOYEE WELLNESS AND ENGAGEMENT

Our team's safety, wellbeing, and engagement are vital to our business. We prioritise a positive health and safety culture, injury prevention, and risk mitigation through high workplace standards.

We have programs in place for mental health, risk management, and wellness initiatives. Our comprehensive framework includes training, events, and initiatives to support mental health, such as SWM Wellness, RU OK Day?, Mental Health Month, and campaigns on gender-based violence and financial stress.

Resilience programs are delivered across the organisation, particularly for news and broadcast teams.

We have also improved the benefits available to employees dealing with domestic or family violence issues, by upgrading our employee assistance program to a provider that also offers a counselling arm and speciality services, including legal support.

We have reward and performance frameworks, talent development opportunities, and gender-balanced recruitment processes. We are proud to now offer up to five days paid fertility treatment, both for the individual receiving treatment and for individuals supporting a partner undergoing fertility treatment.

More details can be found in the Seven West Media annual report.
